ABOUT CHRISTINE HACHEM

Hello! I have recently moved to Los Angeles to pursue a career in the entertainment industry, specifically in acting and production. I am a Massachusetts native and a recent graduate of Emerson College with a BA in Visual Media Arts.

STORY OF MY BLOG

Dolled and Proud began in 2014 when my mom and I visited my sister in California. We were having a girls' day and they encouraged me to start a blog. Now through social media, I aim to spread positivity with a peek into my personal life. Mental health has always been an important subject in my life, so I understand the importance of self-care and constantly look for new ways to incorporate it into my fashion as well as my overall lifestyle. In addition to this, I am on the shorter side - 4'11" (and 3/4) - and I have always strived to inspire others to be confident in their own skin no matter what society's standards call for.
